HISTORY. ARCHITECTURE. EXPLORING

14th district of Paris

It is well known that Paris underground is like cheese full of holes. But, apart from the engineers whose job is to go there and the cataphiles of very bad reputation, who really knows this maze of galleries that runs hundreds of kilometers under the capital?

After many difficulties, the Seadacc obtained from the Government and the General Inspection of Quarries, the authorization to safeguard a small part stretched out under the Cochin Hospital, an isolated part of the large general network for the needs of its preservation. Volunteers have been taking turns for many years to restore and maintain this very representative part of the history of the quarries.

It is therefore in a unique setting that is not usually open to the public that you will discover this network, with its historical remains, hidden architecture, geological wealth and its strange atmosphere.
